INTRODUCTORY.

THE following pages are intended especially for the "Old Boys" of St. Joseph's College. They contain in pictures a history of St. Joseph's, and we are sure they will prove a source of interest and pleasure to former inmates of the College. It is part of human nature to have a special attachment for places and surroundings in which the prime of life was passed; and for the College-bred man the associations and reminiscences of his student-years certainly are pleasant memories. Wherever he is and whatever occupation in life he follows, he delights to return in thought to the scenes of his College-days and to live over, unalloyed by the consciousness of stern reality, the incidents of a happy and eventful period of his life. To aid him in this is the purpose of these pages. In them he finds persons associated with the founding of the College; scenes amid which many hours of toil and pleasant recreation were spent; groups of fellow-students with whom he was associated in literary, social and athletic activities; in short, he finds faces and scenes, the memory of which will ever be dear to him.

To the friends and patrons of the College the various views of the different buildings will convey in concrete form an idea of the steady progress the College has made during the fifteen years of its existence.

These glimpses of College-life may also serve to acquaint prospective students with the conditions and surroundings at St. Joseph's, and assist them in the selection of an Alma Mater.
